

Robert Taylor to Visit Hope for Festival

Haskell Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Republican State Committeeman, said today that movie and television star Robert Taylor will come to Hope Saturday to take part in the Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival.

Mr. Taylor will ride in the festival parade along with Sen. Thurston Morton of Tennessee and Winthrop Rockefeller.

Mr. Taylor and Mr. Rockefeller will meet the public at a reception on City Hall lawn at 11:30 a.m. At that time the movie star will sign autographs. A press conference will follow at 12 noon in City Hall.

The distinguished visitors will lunch with the chicken cooking contestants at the home of Mrs. Freeda Greenan.

They will leave shortly thereafter for Little Rock to attend the Arkansas Republican Dinner Saturday night.

Key Questions Aired by Rail Owner, Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—The railroads and five operating unions take up the key question today of eliminating the jobs of locomotive firemen in a last ditch effort to settle their work rules fight before a June 12 strike deadline.

A new round of negotiations began with a two-hour session Monday, mainly devoted to laying down guidelines for future sessions, which may go on for several weeks.

Both sides agreed to go to work first on the question of removing firemen from freight and yard trains.

This is the central issue in the dispute over work rules. It involves the jobs of some 40,000 firemen a presidential commission said last year weren't needed.

If agreement can be reached on this point, other issues probably can be cleared up promptly.

The railroads contend that outmoded work rules, which they call featherbedding, result in unnecessary operating expenses totaling $600 million annually.

A special three-man presidential emergency board last week softened the recommendations of the earlier presidential commission and proposed slightly better benefits for workers whose jobs were abolished.

Banty who herself adopted a plastic egg, was dragged across the backyard by Flippy a number of times ending up in Banty's coop. The two of them get along real well at this time. A veterinarian explained this may continue for 3 weeks, with Flippy showing more than usual affection for Banty.

Presidential Plane Sets New Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's jet airliner completed a nonstop flight from Moscow to Washington today claiming 15 speed records.

The Air Force Boeing 707 flew the 5,001 miles in 9 hours 53 minutes and 52 seconds.

The $10-million jet landed in rain at 4:09 a.m. at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., the point from which it started the Moscow round trip Saturday.

The plane made the flight to Moscow in 8 hours 38 minutes and 42 seconds—the fastest flight in either direction between the United States and Russia.

The average speed for the flight from Moscow to Washington was 565.3 mph. The flight to Moscow averaged 580 mph.

The ship, flown by Col. James B. Swindal, brought back two officials of the National Aeronautics Association, Dr. Robert B. Dillaway, Woodland Hills, Calif., and Clyde Barnett, Los Angeles California state aeronautics commissioner.

The record attempt was arranged by the NAA after considerable negotiation with the Russians. Soviet officials were reluctant to permit the United States to claim new marks for the route since they have been complaining that the United States is opposing the establishment of commercial air services between the two countries.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislative Council voted today to invite the Southern Conference of the Council of State Governments to meet in Arkansas in 1964 or 1965.

Debts of a Doctor Are Discharged

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Debts of Dr. Earle D. McKelvey of Paragould were discharged Monday by federal Referee in Bankruptcy Arnold M. Adams over objections from five major creditors.

McKelvey was declared bankrupt July 31, 1961, his financial problems stemming from his association with Arnold M. Edens, a securities salesman now serving prison sentences on charges of false pretense, embezzlement and fraud.

McKelvey's creditors filed claims totaling $276,892 and McKelvey listed assets of $22,632.

The five major creditors were National Bank of Commerce in Memphis, the Bank of Tuckerman, Mrs. Lelah Wasson Bright of Memphis, Opportunity Enterprises, Inc., of Tuckerman, and Charles W. Shaver of Newport.

Their principal contention was that McKelvey signed two financial statements in 1959 which were materially false and they extended credit on a basis of these statements.

Adams ruled that McKelvey had not executed the statements with intent to deceive. He said Edens won McKelvey's confidence and induced him to lend large sums of money to Edens' enterprises.

McKelvey simply dropped by Edens' office, Adams said, and signed whatever Edens requested and it was in this manner that the financial statements were executed.

Edens presented the statements in seeking loans, Adams said, and "what the objecting creditors did was extend credit upon representations made by Arnold Edens."

15 Atlantic Pact Powers in Session

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

OTTAWA (AP)—Statesmen of the 15 Atlantic pact powers gathered in Ottawa today to give formal approval to a compromise formula approved by President Charles de Gaulle—permitting the formation of an allied nuclear force.

Delegates of France and several other countries said the formula would be set forth in the final communiqué of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's spring meeting of foreign and defense ministers. The three-day meeting opens Wednesday.

The formula leaves the force nameless and without a command structure of its own. The French said they would block the project if it was portrayed as something new, or extraordinary, or implying fresh commitments.

The conference communiqué reportedly will say that:

1. Britain is assigning her entire 180-plane V-bomber force, complete with hydrogen bombs, to U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe.
2. The United States is assigning three nuclear-powered submarines, armed with Polaris missiles, to Lemnitzer.
3. These forces will augment tactical strike forces with a nuclear capacity.
4. Other actions are to be taken to improve liaison on nuclear weapons policy between all members of the alliance.

Wants More Unity Among Cuba Exiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government generally welcomes moves for greater unity among Cuban exiles but has not given formal support to any single group.

Thus a State Department spokesman characterized U.S. policy following formation in Miami Monday of a "Cuban Committee of Liberation" dedicated to "fight to achieve once again the independence of our country."

About 150 leading exiles—including former Cuban President Carlos Prío Socarrás—signed the charter of the new committee. But some major anti-Castro units have not yet joined.

Officials did not rule out the possibility the United States will deal with the new committee later if it should become the generally accepted united front of the exiles.

In Miami, exile sources said a blueprint for anti-Castro action had emerged from conferences with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The program, they said, calls for guerrilla warfare, sabotage and infiltration of Cuban armed forces, followed by invasion or bombardment of Cuba from a nearby island.

U.S. policy still is against free-lance raids on the island, the State Department spokesman said.

Alabama Expels Negroes In Race Issue

By JACK STILLMAN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Negro leaders say they will go to federal court in efforts to void a Birmingham school board order to expel or suspend more than 1,000 Negro pupils who demonstrated against segregation.

The school board's action Monday was not unexpected, and Negro leaders said they planned to fight the move only by legal means.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said on his return from Atlanta, "We will not call for a mass walkout or boycott of the schools, nor will we call for a renewal of demonstrations at this point."

After a meeting with other integration leaders, King said, "We will not seek to correct an unwise act by moving hastily into another unwise act."

The decision by the Negro leaders saved a shaky biracial agreement which had been threatened by the school board's handling of the dispute.

"We know there are certain forces in Birmingham trying to sabotage this agreement," King said.

He called the board's action "a tragic move, immoral . . . a distasteful act."

In a letter to school principals, Supt. Theo Wright ordered immediate expulsion of pupil participants over 16 and suspension of those under 16. It affects 1,081 pupils arrested in protest marches over the past several weeks.

A school board spokesman said the action was in keeping with the board's policy on truancy.

On another front, Commissioner-Mayor Arthur Hanes called a Supreme Court decision outlawing city and state interference in sit-in demonstrations "an accommodation for those arrested here."

"It seems to me that any person 'in business does not now have that old traditional right to refuse service to anyone he desires," Hanes said. "It seems that all bars are lowered."

There were these other developments:

—University of Alabama trustees asked U.S. District Judge H. Hobart Grooms to delay admission of Negroes to the university at Tuscaloosa until racial unrest in the state has improved.

The move came as Dean of Admissions Hubert Mate prepared to appear before Grooms to show cause why he would not be held in contempt for violating a 1955 injunction forbidding discrimination against applicants to the university because of race.

Three Negroes are asking the federal court to force the university to admit them.

Court Delays the Business Decision

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has left until next term the question of whether a businessman—a restaurant owner, for instance—can on his own constitutionally discriminate in the serving of customers. Also: Can he ask authorities to help enforce his discrimination?

The tribunal did not take up these problems Monday as it overturned the convictions of 44 sit-in demonstrators protesting segregation in four states.

In this series of cases, the court declared it unconstitutional for a state to require segregation and use its powers to enforce it.

However, in a separate opinion, Justice John M. Harlan said the right of the private businessman to operate on a segregated basis was "ostensibly left untouched" by the court majority's approach to the issue.

Harlan declared: "An individual's right to restrict the use of his property, however unregenerate a particular exercise of that right may be thought, lies beyond the reach of the (Constitution's) 14th Amendment."

"The dilution or virtual elimination of that right cannot well be justified either on the premise that it will hasten formal repeal of outworn segregation laws or on the grounds that it will facilitate proof of state action in cases of this kind."

The Supreme Court's declaration, specifically affected 44 individual demonstrators who appealed to the high tribunal. It also indicates that convictions of

U.S., Europe Near Common Market Solution

By CARL HARTMAN

GENEVA (AP)—A Common Market official said today the United States and the European Common Market members—led by France—were close to agreement on basic principles for a lowering of the Western world's trade barriers.

A mood of optimism spread over the conference.

Maurice Brasseur, Belgian minister of foreign trade, speaking for the six-nation Common Market, told newsmen after a two-hour meeting that the two sides are approaching agreement.

Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, French President Charles de Gaulle's finance minister, shared the optimism. He said the U.S. negotiators have accepted the French contention that a special automatic formula must be found for reducing high American tariffs.

"So the differences between us now are small," he added. There was no immediate American comment on Giscard d'Estaing's statement. But an American spokesman said that he was more optimistic than he had been since the meeting began last Thursday.

It was hoped that it could end today with the approval of a system of tariff negotiations by the conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The optimism appeared after Cabinet ministers of the Common Market offered a new compromise early this morning.

Astronaut to Visit Washington

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper takes another spin today—a triumphal whirl along the capital's route of heroes.

A cheering, whistling welcome awaited the quiet Air Force major who streaked to fame last week in the silent oceans of space as he orbited the earth 22 times.

The slim spaceman faced a dizzying day of ceremonies: a medal from the President, a speech to Congress and a motorcade up the glory road from the White House to Capitol Hill.

Officials scheduled the day's highlight for the White House rose garden where President Kennedy will pin the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Distinguished Service Medal on the 36-year-old pilot who flew around the earth more times than any other American.

The Weather Bureau predicted a cool, cloudy day, far better than the day more than a year ago when a pouring rain drenched 200,000 to 300,000 spectators as they watched Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. on his motorcade up Pennsylvania Avenue.

The President's plane, bringing Cooper from Cape Canaveral, Fla., was due to land at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland in the late morning. With him will be his wife, Trudy, his two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13, and at least four of the other astronauts.

After the ceremonies, the President planned a 10-minute private chat with the astronaut in the presidential office.

Among the officials invited to watch the medal-pinning ceremonies were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A 20-car motorcade to Capitol Hill will follow the White House ceremonies, and officials assured a huge turnout by releasing school children from classes and letting government workers take a long lunch hour.

After the speech to Congress, Cooper will be the guest of a luncheon in the State Department. His hosts will be Vice President Johnson and James E. Webb, NASA administrator.

The Coopers fly to New York Wednesday morning for a ticker tape parade up Broadway.

about 3,000 Negroes and whites arrested for sit-ins in various Southern states are unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who wrote the majority opinion in the five cases which had been argued together, said of the key case from Greenville, S.C.:

"When a state agency passes a law compelling persons to discriminate against other persons because of race, and the state's criminal processes are employed in a way which enforces the discrimination mandated by that law such a palpable violation of the 14th Amendment cannot be saved by attempting to separate the mental urges of the discriminators."

In the Greenville case, Warren said, the city by ordinance provided that any decision as to whether a restaurant is to be operated on a desegregated basis is to be reserved to the city.

Thus, said Warren, a person owning an eating place is left with no choice of his own, but must segregate white and Negro. This, he said, is state action that can not stand.

CIVIL WAR ALBUM

Own Men Shot 'Stonewall' Jackson

The advance had been going well. The Confederates drove against the Union forces around Chancellorsville, which were commanded by Gen. Hooker.

There was no doubt that Lee's best general was Thomas Jackson—Stonewall Jackson, as he was respectfully called by his men. The two leaders had conferred before the climax of the battle, at dawn on May 3, 1863. Jackson was to bring his 26,000 men to bear on the Union entrenchments at Chancellorsville.

The battle advanced through forest and field at a pace for which even the Confederate generals had not dared hope. The Federal lines withered and broke at all points. Chancellorsville was to be the last clear-cut Confederate victory of the war. But it was not gained without a price. The price included the life of Stonewall Jackson.

Late on May 3, Jackson was directing the fast-moving attack from the saddle of his famous mount, "Old Sorrel." As he galloped with his aides along a road his party moved unknowingly in front of the lines of two North Carolina brigades which had just moved into position to bring further pressure on retreating Federal infantry.

Suddenly, a volley of Confederate rifle fire swept through the small group of horsemen. A sergeant and captain fell dead from their mounts. Then a second volley found its mistaken mark.

The general was placed on a litter and carried from the scene, but Federal shellfire further whipped the area. One litter bearer fell dead. Finally, with much loss of blood, Jackson was borne to a field hospital, where his left arm was amputated.

A week later, on May 10, Jackson died from his wounds. His last words: "Let us pass over the river and rest under the shade of the trees."

Chapter 8

THE STORY: A woman in town has been making inquiries about Dr. Howdershell.

VIII

The women said that they would clear the tables, and they did, with the men beginning to tote baskets and freezers and things to the cars. took the brush and began to sweep the ashes back into the fire pit of the big barbecue. Having put on heavy gloves, Smokey was rubbing the grills with a metal-bristled brush. His face was closed tight, almost Oriental in its inscrutability, and all at once I had to say something!

"You're worried about that woman who spoke to Keyes are you not?" But he didn't look at me.

"For heaven's sake," I cried. "If you're worried, why not say so? Don't you ever open the door?"

He turned to call "goodnight!" to the Summeresses, and finally he said to me that he "didn't understand," speaking in a remote voice.

I waited.

He cleaned the whole grill, then he threw the brush to the back of the stove. "I'm afraid, Jannet!" he blurted. "Afraid!"

"Because you're alone," I told him.

"Yes," he said tensely. He stood so close to me that I could feel the heat of his body, and he spoke in a tight whisper. "It's because I have to be alone!"

Seeing the fear rise in me, Smokey put his hand on my arm.

"Dad! Telephone!" It was Keyes, roaring from the upper veranda.

Smokey lifted his hand in a gesture of resignation, and walked swiftly toward the house. I put the cover on the stove, and waited. If it was a call, he'd come out to his car.

He did come out, almost at once, saying, to all concerned, that he'd had a call to the hospital.

"Are you on duty?" I asked him.

He shook his head, taking off his apron and giving it to me. So it would be an emergency.

Benny Bell was still riding his scooter up and down the street. I mentioned this as I walked with Smokey around the house to his car. "Should you tell that boy to ride some place else?"

"And have him ask me if there's a law against his riding in the street?"

"But he—"

"He's deviling Lovey."

"But" I put my hand on the open car door. "Should you leave the kids alone?"

Smokey put his key into the ignition. "Clara will be here," he reminded me. "She would defend them with her life."

She would. He was right about that.

"I was thinking," I said, knowing that he wanted to get away, knowing that I had more to worry about than a goony boy. "They—Keyes and Lovey—they may need more than—than Clara's sort of defense."

Smokey nodded, and the engine purred. "That's right," he told me. I took my hand from the door, and stepped back. "If they do need more," he said, "I'll get it for them."

That mist-wrapped October dawn was like a gigantic stage set, seen through shimmering gauze curtains which would be drawn back, one by one, slowly revealing, detail by detail, as one watched, lowland and hill top, woodland and garden.

Smokey came out of his house that morning to such a world. Smokey got out at the admissions entrance, leaving Keyes to park the car in its usual place. After doing this, he would follow his father up to the surgical floor which is a sort of penthouse rising above the main block of the hospital.

There are the operating rooms, a dressing room, scrub room, and the recovery room, as well as Smokey's office. All these rooms, and the corridor, are lighted by skylights of opaque glass.

Smokey, wearing a brown sweater with his white shirt and tweed trousers, went through the hospital to the front desk, speaking to those he passed. The girl at the desk was busy at the switchboard and only smiled at Dr. Howdershell. Behind him the parlor was dim and unlighted, nobody sat in the chairs ranged

Will Try to Take South From JFK

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS
By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was described today as knowing that in Gov. George Wallace of Alabama he is dealing with a man who hopes to take the South away from him in 1964.

A close associate said the President is aware that Wallace hopes to hold himself out as a martyr to Southern segregationists by a dramatic stand against integration at the University of Alabama.

This could come either at the university branch in Huntsville in June or on the Tuscaloosa campus next September. In either setting, those who know him well say they expect the governor to carry out his repeated pledge personally to block the doorway against admission of a Negro student.

It apparently would fit the governor's political purpose if he were arrested by U.S. marshals. But the assumption is that news pictures showing U.S. officials jostling him aside would do about as well.

According to one of those present, Kennedy got the governor's personal pledge in a brief helicopter confrontation last Saturday that local and state civilian authorities would maintain law and order in Birmingham.

Saying that nothing could please him more, the President replied that he would not use federal troops dispatched to military reservations in Alabama unless there were fresh and uncontrolled racial disturbances.

But the President made it plain he would use federal force if necessary to maintain the rights of Negroes to peaceable assembly and petition.

Nothing was said about the prospective forthcoming university showdown.

But national Democratic officials are convinced this action will be the forerunner of an effort by the governor to keep Kennedy's name off the 1964 party ballot in Alabama—and is many other Dixie states as will go along with the idea.

Within minutes the corridor would be busy with stretchers, nurses in white and green, doctors walking swiftly talking laughingly, but for that minute, a white-capped nurse sat alone at her desk with the schedule and the orders before her.

Livestock Show Dates Are Set

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Board of Directors of the Arkansas Livestock Exposition voted Monday to hold the 1963 event Oct. 1-5, which means it will be five days long instead of the usual six.

Clyde E. Byrd, executive vice president and general manager of the exposition, told the board Monday that last year's show made an operating profit of $25,000. He attributed the profit to good weather and top attractions.

The decision to limit the show to five days was prompted by the fact that Royal American Shows will be held up in Oklahoma through Sept. 30 and the board preferred to cut the show short a day rather than break the contract with Royal American Shows.

Newport Awaits Election Date

NEWPORT (AP)—Pro-city manager forces in Newport waited today for word on the date of a special election to select a city Board of Directors.

Mayor T. J. Walden said Monday that he would call an election as soon as he received official notice of an Arkansas Supreme Court ruling that city manager forced won an election last Aug. 21.

The ruling was handed down Monday, climaxing a long, bitter fight. Walden and other city officials appealed to the Supreme Court after Jackson Circuit Court ruled in favor of the city manager forces in an election contest suit.

Loyalists Crush New Turk Revolt

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Loyal troops today crushed a former army colonel's second attempt in 15 months to overthrow Turkey's government.

Radio Ankara announced the proclamation of martial law in three cities—Ankara, Istanbul and Izmir.

The revolt, headed by ex-Col. Talat Aydemir, lasted less than 12 hours. Among forces backing him were cadets of the war college, Turkey's West Point.

Radio Ankara announced Aydemir and 10 other top insurgents were arrested. They are expected to be tried shortly.

Seven persons were reported killed and 23 wounded during fighting in the capital. Most of them fell when government forces attacked cadets who defied an ultimatum to return to their barracks and surrender.

Gen. Cevdet Sunay, chief of staff of the Turkish armed forces, dawn, "A treacherous attempt by said in a broadcast shortly after a small group to seize power has been completely crushed."

Pipelines transport 2/3 of the nation's energy needs

Because pipelines have proved to be the most economical and dependable means of transporting energy fuels, they are today carrying 66 2/3 % of the nation's total energy requirements.

Long-haul, large-volume pipelines are a phenomenon of the past twenty years. More than a half-million miles of pipelines serve America today. This number will increase greatly in the next twenty years as the demand for fuels zooms to almost twice its present size.

In meeting the nation's future energy demands, you can look to Texas Eastern, as pipeline of energy, to play an ever-increasing role in moving, storing and supplying energy fuels in all their versatile forms. Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, Houston, Texas.

DOROTHY DIX

HE CAN'T FORGET THE GIRL BACK HOME
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You advocate playing the field rather than going steady. Believe me, it doesn't work.

All though high I date one girl and we were both in seventh heaven until I went away to college. Her parents disapproved of her limiting dates to my occasional visits so we broke up. It almost killed me.

"Never mind," said my folks, this will give you a chance to play the field until you know your own mind. I accepted the inevitable and came to college hoping to find a replacement. No such luck! I've dated every girl on the campus and still can't forget the one I left behind.

Friends write that she feels the same about me. The crux of the problem is her parents who, for some unknown reason, dislike me intensely and are actively engaged in encouraging her to date the son of a well-to-do neighbor.

I want her, need her, but I also want her to be happy. Should she choose the other guy, her life would be cloudless as a June day but if she chooses me, she can expect nothing but the thunder and lightning of parental disapproval.

I find it impossible to concentrate on my studies. If it keeps up I'll be flunked. Help! —Frustrated Lover.

Dear Frustrated: Since Romeo and Juliet, and Anthony and Cleopatra, lovers have been frustrated. One might also say that frustration is a necessary ingredient of true love. If you can't rise above a frustration or two before marriage, you'll never be able to overcome any afterward.

You have already proven the worth of playing the field. After dating "every girl on the campus," (this is no mean feat if you're in a large state university), you are indeed in a position to know your own mind. How much stronger is your conviction now than it would have been otherwise! As you, yourself, diagnose, "The crux of the problem is her parents."

If I were you, I would not let their reason for disliking you remain unknown. Examine yourself in relation to their daughter as objectively as possible and try to figure out the grounds of their objection. If such grounds are apparent, weigh them carefully in terms of a happy marriage, which, after all, is their chief consideration as well as yours.

If you honestly cannot determine yourself why her parents oppose you as a son-in-law, then question the girl or go to the parents directly. All this, of course.

Mrs. Jim James, Gardenia, Mrs. Blair Shuford, Lilac, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Rose, Florence Bright, Lilac.

Judges for the show were: Mrs. Jesse Cox, Mrs. Grady Knowles, Mrs. Billy Wilson, Mrs. Tom Stough, Mrs. O. L. Atkinson and Mrs. Robert Phillips, who is the new president of Arkansas State Federation of Garden Clubs.

Injured Trying to Dismantle Bomb

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—James Hildredth, 32, a Negro of Camden, died today at a Camden hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday in an automobile accident on Highway 9, 20 miles north of Camden.

Sure enough. It was our car with my husband at the wheel.

I waited till he passed then caught up with my friends. As they drove me home I noticed him parked down by the railroad tracks back of our house. When he came home I said nothing nor did he mention his sleuthing. But I did ask why he left the office early.

He mumbled something about needing fresh air. Should I let on that I saw him? This isn't the first time he's spied on me. Please answer me in your column. I wouldn't want him to discover that I've written you.—Nervous Wreck.

Dear Nervous Wreck: During the past eight years both you and your husband have apparently failed to build up the faith and trust needed to sustain any marriage. Sympathetic, frank discussion will go a long way toward regaining confidence in each other.

It strikes me that your pretense of not noticing that he was apparently trailing you is just as odd as the so-called sleuthing itself. When you asked him why he left the office early, didn't he wonder how you knew that fact? All this subterfuge is leading you farther apart.

As of right now, get off to a fresh start with him. Forget about the incidents you've described because your behavior was just as faulty as his, and henceforth concentrate on demonstrating your affection for him. Next time you discover he's checking up on you, tell him you appreciate his solicitude and are thankful for the "lift."

Dear Helen: My mom helped nurse me through a lot of sickness and I'm paying her back by doing for her around the house but don't think it is enough. What else can I do to make her happy? —R. V. S.

Dear R. V. S.: Mothers should care for their children, not with the expectation of being paid back, but because they love them unselfishly. A mother's reward is the happiness and well-being of her offspring. It's good of you to help around the house as long as it's not at the expense of your own development as a mature, worthwhile human being. Realizing all your potentialities would give your mother the greatest happiness. How are your grades at school?

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Negro-Sit-in Activity to Increase

ATLANTA (AP)—Negro sit-in activity will increase as a result of the Supreme Court's decision on sit-in demonstrations, says a top attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, associate counsel of the NAACP's legal defense fund, told a news conference in New York Monday the decision would increase the desire of Negroes to be served in restaurants and other establishments.

She said this would lead to many more demonstrations throughout the nation.

The court ruled Monday that a state or city may not interfere, in any fashion, with peaceful sit-in demonstrations in public places of business. However, the court did not draw a clear line of when a shopkeeper may on his own refuse to serve Negroes or call police to have them evicted from his property.

Mrs. Motley later told a mass rally of Negroes in Birmingham, Ala., that the decision would clear about 300 students convicted in Southern sit-ins. She said the decision left Birmingham department store owners "free to serve Negroes on the same basis as other citizens."

"I think the decision was as great as the Supreme Court decision in the school cases," she said.

The court threw out convictions of lunch counter sit-in demonstrators in Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina, and declared it unconstitutional for a state to require segregation and use its powers to enforce it.

Commissioner of Mayor Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, scene of recent sit-ins and mass desegregation demonstrations, said he had not read the decision, but added, "I feel it's going a little far afield."

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta said the courts have been moving toward elimination of any form of discrimination in public or semipublic places. He said the decision is another step in that direction.

There was no immediate comment from Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, Georgia Gov. Carl Sanders said, "I have no comment at all."

Bill Fischer Is a Modest Hurler

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Fischer is a modest man in an age when many become round shouldered from patting themselves on the back. Balking at 32, he seems almost embarrassed to be leading all major league pitchers with a 6-0 record for the Kansas City A's.

"It's nice. It's great. But I'm just a ... What is it they say? ... a humpty dumpty," Fischer said Monday. "Last year I lost my last eight. This year I could have lost all six. When you win six and pitch only 21 innings you have to be lucky."

"It would be nice to stay like this, just once," he said, and added with a shrug. "But it's impossible to go through a whole year and not lose a game."

In the 15 years since he left Marathon, Wis., and rode 40 miles to Wisconsin Rapids for his first job in Class D at $150 a month, Fischer has seen them all, from bus league to jets.

"In ever missed a step," he said. "Every class, D, C, B, A, Double A, Triple A and the majors. Eleven years in the White Sox chain and four big league clubs."

"I'm 32. I'm not going to be a star. I'm just a mediocre pitcher. Thanks to Eddie Lopat (manager of the A's) I have come up with a new pitch, a slow curve. I can get it over the plate for a strike five out of six times. That is the difference in me."

What is so different about a slow curve?

"After looking at me for seven years, the hitters remember," Fischer explained. "They knew I was slow."

Tribute Paid to Ernie Davis

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Team athletics, the center of the late Ernie Davis' life after he moved here 11 years ago, came to a one-day halt at the city's three high schools today in tribute to him.

The body of the former Syracuse University halfback, who was a two-time All-American and the nation's finest collegiate football player of 1961, laid in state at the Neighborhood House Davis played basketball in the building before entering Elmira Free Academy.

Pupils at the academy observed a minute of silence Monday in memory of Davis, who died Saturday in Cleveland of acute leukemia. He was 23.

Flags at school and city buildings were flown at half-staff. A committee was organized to plan a memorial to Davis.

Court Will Not Speed Barnett Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to speed up its hearing of an appeal in which Gov. Ross R. Barnett of Mississippi claims the right to a jury trial in the criminal contempt case pending against him.

The high tribunal announced its refusal in routine fashion in a long list of orders.

The order in the Barnett case gave no explanation.

The high tribunal on April 29, 1963 agreed to hear arguments on the jury trial question but said the arguments would be heard in the court's new term next fall.

It said the case probably would be called some time during a two-week session beginning October 14.

Barnett then petitioned the court for a special, early argument session and prompt decision.

The governor and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi were cited for criminal contempt by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans. The officials were accused of refusing to obey Circuit Court orders not to interfere with admission of James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi last fall.

After citing the state officials, the Circuit Court split 4-4 on whether the trial should be by a jury or by a judge or judges.

Barnett and Johnson asked a Jury trial. The Circuit Court requested the Supreme Court to decide the

Belinsky May Not Be With Dodgers Long

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Rumors persisted in baseball circles today that pitcher Bo Belinsky will not be with the Los Angeles Angels much longer.

Latest report is that the sometimes wayward Angel is about to be traded. An earlier report had the southpaw headed for the minors.

Bud Furillo, sports writer for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, said Monday night a deal for Belinsky already had been approved by Los Angeles General Manager Fred Haney.

Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, was asked whether the Tribe was interested in Belinsky, who pitched a no-hitter in his rookie season last year.

"We always are interested in strengthening the ball club," Gabe replied, adding quite properly: "I can't talk about specific players. It could be construed as tampering."

Paul did say that Manager Birdie Tebbets had been talking to Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney, and he observed that Belinsky "has a good arm."

There will be more conversations before Los Angeles departs Wednesday night, but "whether something will come of it, I don't know," Paul added.

Los Angeles baseball writers report Rigney would like to get Cleveland's Gary Bell, a right-hander who's been having some troubles of his own. He has won 2 and lost 3 so far this season. Other players also were mentioned in the talk involving Belinsky.

Belinsky, 26, who has a 1-7 record this season, spent Monday night in the bullpen as the Tribe beat the Angels 7-5. The move may mean the removal of the left hander from the starting rotation.

Pappas Hurls Orioles to League Tie

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Milt Pappas and Dick Drott pitched in two different worlds, but both are students of the same school.

Pappas, 24-year-old Baltimore right-hander who earned his Paul Richards diploma a few years back, and Drott, a 26-year-old Houston right-hander who graduated from the Paul Richards school only recently, came up with outstanding pitching performances Monday night.

Pappas limited Detroit to five hits, pitching Baltimore into a tie for the American League lead by blanking the Tigers 6-0. Drott checked Pittsburgh on the same amount of hits as Houston defeated the Pirates 2-0 in the only National League game scheduled.

In the other AL games, Chicago's White Sox moved up into the top spot with the Orioles by edging Washington 5-4. Minnesota dropped Boston from first to fourth by downing the Red Sox 6-5 and Cleveland whipped the Los Angeles Angels 7-5. New York and Kansas City were idle.

Pappas, a Richards protege when the master manipulator of pitchers was manager at Baltimore, recorded his second shutout of the season and his fourth complete game in bringing his record to 4-0. He struck out seven and lowered his earned run average to an amazing 1.17.

Drott, a Richards reclamation project now that he's the Colts' general manager, surprised teachers even more, pitching his first complete game in 23 starts over four years—since June 14, 1959. And it followed by only three days the no-hitter pitched by Houston's Don Nottebart, still another Richards' pupil.

The White Sox scored the decisive runs in the sixth inning on a single by Floyd Robinson, Joe Cunningham's double and sacrifice flies by Dave Nicholson and Charlie Maxwell, but needed Jim Brosnan's 2-1-3 innings of tight relief pitching to subdue the Senators. Brosnan now has allowed only one earned run in 11 1-3 innings since he was acquired from Cincinnati two weeks ago.

A three-run homer by Earl Battey that capped a four-run first inning uprising and solo shots by Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew powered the Twins and dropped the Red Sox all the way down to fourth place. Reliever Bill Dailey retired the last seven men in order to preserve the triumph for Camilo Pascual, now 5-4.

Consecutive third inning homers by Willie Kirkland and Tito Francona gave the Indians a lead they never relinquished. Despite the addition of four unearned runs, Cleveland had to hold on as Leon Wagner drove in five runs for Los Angeles with two homers. They were the 12th and 13th for the AL leader.

"It certainly seems doubtful that he will be able to run in the Belmont,"
The Belmont Stakes, last of the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds is scheduled at Aqueduct in New York June 8.

One report had it that Never Bend, who ran second in the Kentucky Derby and third in last week's Preakness, would be out of action until the fall.

"That is a bit presumptuous," Guggenheim said. "We have been nursing the ankle, hoping it would come around all right. Now we have decided that we should give the horse a rest and let the ankle heal thoroughly."

Dallas' Gain Is Real Loss to This City

Roscoe Smith

(Editor's Note: Roscoe Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith Jr., is a native of Hope and handled the Negro (City) park here for several years before he moved to Dallas. Here as in Dallas he devoted much of his time to the youth of the city and it was a great loss to Hope when he and his family moved to Dallas. In 2½ years he built the Dallas Scout troop from nine members to 287 members, perhaps the largest troop in the world. Juvenile delinquency has declined an estimated 80 per cent in this particular section of Dallas since Mr. Smith took over Scouting duties. Having known Roscoe all his life, the Editor can only say that it's unfortunate for the City of Hope to lose a man like him as his work in Dallas bears out. The following article is reprinted from the April 15 issue of the Dallas Morning News.)

From Dallas Morning News By JOHN GEDDIE

Troop 165 flourishes in a South Dallas area where a South Dallas Scout uniform — "to be prepared" — might have carried a clue a few years ago.

In 1960 the Negro Boy Scout unit consisted of nine outcast youths. Now its roscall lists 287 H. S. Thompson students.

It is the largest in the city and in the 14-county Circle Ten Council, and probably the Southwest. But more important, its members are waging a day-to-day battle against juvenile delinquency in an area which has mothered teen-age criminals.

Top Scouting officials in Dallas relate the drop in JD in the area around the Bexar street school directly to the increase and activity of Troop 165. Specifically, they credit 27-year-old Roscoe Smith, a Thompson health-science teacher and troop scoutmaster.

"You see, I have what we call an executive staff of about 13 boys. They plan all activities. Right now some of them are doing research on juveniles delinquency."

"They're learning to control delinquency, and they are learning about themselves."

Smith acknowledged that some of his boys have police records. Before he came to Thompson 2½ years ago there were from "10 to 15 fights a day."

The boys ran in packs but not Scout packs.

They were budding delinquents. "See that one there?" He had the worst gang in the neighborhood. Now he's on my staff. He's just leading in other directions."

Today "that one there" would act as an official of the "Kangaroo Court" if a fellow Scout stepped out of line. For in the event of a crime, the Scout is given the choice of leaving the troop or, with his parents' consent, going through court and eventually a healthy belt line.

In two years only one left. He returned the next day to face his punishment.

Out of Scouting at Thompson he would have an outcast. Of the 400 eligible boys from 11 to 13 years of age, almost two-thirds are Scouts.

"The secret is recognition," Smith said. "They go out after merit badges. They try out for the drill team." This team, he added, can suit out 180 boys in uniform and has won several march contests.

When he first came to the school, he said he found the nine scouts with nothing to do. He organized, planned activities and most importantly said the assistant Scoutmaster, "Spent time with them."

"A revolution was witnessed," by one school official as more boys joined and attendance and discipline improved.

The city boys were taken on rabbit hunts and once the Scouts pulled Smith from the Trinity after a hiking error.

Picks Actors for Life of Mrs. Zaharias

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—George Zaharias, projecting a movie on the life of the great Babe Didrikson Zaharias, wants Katharine Hepburn and Jackie Gleason to play the title roles in "The Babe and I."

"Jackie would be perfect to play me," George said delightedly. "He's about my size and knows golf. Miss Hepburn is a tall, athletic-looking woman like the Babe. It would be ideal casting."

George Zaharias is a man who lives with a memory.

He is a gargantuan former wrestler once known as "The Crying Greek." He weighs around 300 pounds and wears a size 50 suit, the jacket of which won't button over his bulging waistline. His dark hair is thinning and has flecks of gray. Both ears are gorgeously cauliflowered. He has shoulder like an ox and hands like hams.

But tears cloud his eyes when he recalls his life with the "Babe," the greatest woman athlete who ever lived. She died of cancer Sept. 27, 1956.

"I thought I could go on and make a life of my own," George said. "I found I couldn't. We were a team. I dedicated my life to her, now I can't break the chain. I think of her every day."

In 1960, Zaharias married again — his new bride being one of the Babe's best friends and with a strangely striking resemblance. It didn't last. "She was a wonderful woman," George said, "but she couldn't stand always being in the Babe's shadow."

The world may never see a woman athlete to compare with Babe Didrikson Zaharias. She broke two world records in the 1932 Olympics. She was an All-America basketball forward. She excelled in billiards, swimming, diving, bowling, fencing, polo, lacrosse and even such male sports as football and boxing.
